In Sylvia's Garden.

This garden where the lady dwells
I've loved—and loved in valu—
Still keeps, through all the summer heat,
A coolness as of rain.

Soft falling as the long days' ends, To set the blackbirds sincipg. And, to the weary bearts of men. What dreams are dearest bringing.

I lie upon the velvet grass
Dreaming, with half shut eyes,
And—av'n as flowers revive with rain—
Once more old hopes arise.

For yonder I behold her walk, White-robed, among the roses: And it must be sne'll grow more kind Or e'er the summer closes.

Cure for Hound shoulders.

Care for found shoulders.

A physician in Mother's Nursery Guide has recommended the following movements for the cure of all except very
"severe cases" of round shoulders,
when braces are also sometimes a necessity:

"1. Haise arms before you shoulder high; extend arms sidewise; throw head back; straighten head; move arms for-ward; lower arms; repeat ten times. "2. Stand erect; raise arms before you; rise on tiptoes, then throw arms as far backward as possible; sink again on heels, and drop arms to side; repeat

"3. Raise arms with elbow bent, "3. Raise arms with eibow bont, shoulder high, bringing palms together in front of face; then, with eibows still bent, swing both arms vigorously backward as far as possible even with the shoulders, palms looking forward. This should be repeated several times, but as the position is somewhat fatigiting, rest or change of exercise may be made between the movements."

Curried Lobster.

Pick out the meat of two red lobsters from the shells into a shallow sauce-pan, in the bottom of which has been placed a thin slice of ham, with a little cayenno pepper and a teaspoonful of salt. Mix up half a cupful of white soup and half a cupful of cream and pour over the meat. Put it on the fire and let it simment. Put it on the ine and the training mer for about an hour, add a dessert-spoonful of curry and another of flour rubbed smooth in a little of the liquor rubbed smooth in a little of the inqueries taken out of the pot; in three minutes the curry will be ready to dish. Some add a dash of lemon to this curry, and the cream can be dispensed with if necessary. Put a rim of well-bodied rice round the dish, or serve the rice pages state.

Make good sponge cake, bake half an inch thick in jelly pans, and let them get perfectly cold; take a pint thickest sweet cream, beat until it looks like ice cream, make very sweet, and flavor with vanilla; blanch and chop a pound of almonds, stir into cream, and put very thick between each layer. This is the queen of all cakes.

Canned Corn Soup

Canned Cora Sosp.

Cook one pint of sliced potatees until soft, and rub them through a colander, soft, and rub them through a colander and mix with the potatoes; then add boiling milk to make the required consistency, season with salt and white popper and serve.

Useful Black Silk.

A black silk is a most useful dress, as it possesses the happy faculty of being capable of a dozen changes. The skirt may be worn with fancy colored silk or chiflen waists, and by making the crush collar separate from the waist—fluishing the neck with an inch-wide band—one can wear a lace bertha, a crush collar of colored velvet with a bib or plastron of lace, or a dainty collar and collar of colored velvet with a bib or plastron of lace, or a dainty collar and plastron of colored creps or chiffon, which enacts a perfect transformation scene. White gaipure lace and jet spangles are handsome trimmings for an evening dress, but it is most bractical to have the dress made up all black, and add the touches of color in the removable accessories.

Cinnamon and Cholera.

Chanama and Cholera.

A decoction of cinnamon is recommended as a drink to be taken freely in localities where there is typhoid fever or cholera, for cinnamon has the power to destroy all infectious microbes. Even its seent kills them, while it is pedectly harmless to human beings. It is said that the essence of cinnamon when exposed in the sick room will kill typhoid bacilli in twelve hours and prevent fresh cases.

Baked Bananas

Put into a bowi three tablespoonsful of butter, six of sugar and three of lemon juice and set the bowl into a pan of hot water, so as to melt the butter. Peel the bananas and lay them in a of not water, so as to make the state of the Peel the bananas and lay them in a shallow baking pan. It must be perfectly clean and the bananas must not touch each other. Baste the fruit with the mixture in the bowl and bake for This makes a nice dish either for an entree or for dessert.

Authoress' Male Noms de Plume.

Authoress' Male Noms de Plume.

It is a curious fact that nearly all women who become distinguished in literature under a nom de plume have done so under names that were either masculine or had no sex suggestion. No man could tell whether or not Currer Bell was man or woman. In fact, there is reason to believe that Charlotte Bronte on the title page would have handicapped "Jane Eyre." George Sand, too, won an audience that would have been impossible to Aurora Dudevaut, as did George Eliot one that would have whistled Marian Eyans quite down the wind. Coming nearer our own time there is John Strange Winter—who is in private life Mrs. Stannard—and John Oliver Hobbs, the sensation of at least a London week, who is really Mrs. Perry Cragle. Then in America there is Octave Thanet, known to her friends as Miss Alice French, and Charless Eghert Craddock, whom all the world has heard of, though only about half would recognize her as Miss Murfree.

WHO ARE HEROINES?

This Woman is Not Always Found in Hooks and Verses.

Philade'phia Press.

The girl who labors in the kitchen in order to support herself and stay the hand of infamy acts the part of a heroine. The wife who, with an invalid husband or with a trifling husband, sustains herself and family, acts the part of a heroine. The widow who relies on her industry for a livelihood acts the part of a heroine.

The young lady who braves the fashions of life and attends school until she adorns her mind with useful knowledge, has in her the elements of heroism. The young lady who qualifies herself for business and prefers to make in that business some money that she can call her own, rather than to depend npon her father for all she receives, is worthy of being called a heroine. Hundreds of such heroines are found in shops, in factories, in stores, in kitchens and in schools—womes, who want forth to labor.

A recent English invention for the nursery is a "patent veiled sheet." It is an ordinary sheet, in which a square of gauze not is insorted. This is intended to be thrown over the face of a sleeping infant, protecting it from flies without impeding the respiration.

RUSSIAN VIEWS OF THE DEVIL, "Dog's Scoility" in Children Cored By Passing Them Into the Oven.

Folk lore is full of alarming stories about encounters with the "Cunning One," who assumes no end of shapes and forms in order to effect his wicked purposes. In children whom he wishes to destroy, for instance, he appears in purposes. In children whom he wishes to destroy, for instance, he appears in the fanciful form of "dog's senility," says the London Telegraph.

A short time ago the Odessa News and the Graschidanin chronicled a case in point, which has far more of tragedy than of comedy in it. A postoffice employe had a boy who fell ill and died, and, as the doctor's certificate attributed his death to "searlatina," two sanitary officers were sent to the house to disinfect it. They entered into conversation with the mother of the child, who told them the story of its illness.

"Two long years I suffered with my poor little darling," she remarked, "It had not scarlatina all that time?" asked the sanitary man. "Oh, no; it had "dog's senility' from the very first." "Dog's—dog's—what?" asked the sanitary man, who had been born and bred in an enlichtened city. "Dog's senility, don't you know? It grew old and crabbed like, and knew more than we did, and wasted away; it was the Cunning One' that got into the dear little thing and made it pine away."

"Did you take any measures against the disease?" "Why, we did everything we could think of. We took it to all the doctors around, but what can doctors do against 'Illimself'." A wise woman not far from here advised me to try the only thing that could have helped, and even that was uselegs, because when we heard of it It was too late."

"What was that?" "Weil, we beated the even there and got it ready just as if we were going to bake black bread.

"What was that?" "Weil, we heated the oven there and got it ready just as if we were going to hake black bread. Then we made a second little fire before the oven door. When this was done we strapped the child to the shovel, just like a piece of dough, you know, only taking care that he shouldn't get uneasy and fall off, and then we put it over the second fire into the oven and then drew him out. One of the two women who were present had to call out each time, 'What are you baking?' and I had to answer, 'It's dog senility that I'm baking.' Then the other woman said, 'Bake it well.' We did this three times as the wise woman advised, but it didn't help at all; at least it didn't save my darling's life. God rest his soul. He died a few days later."

Cure For Headache.

Cure For Headache.

As a remedy for all forms of headache Electric Bittors has proved to be the very best. It effects a permanent cure, and the most drended habitual sick headaches yield to its influence. We urge all who are afflicted to precure a bottle, and give this remedy a fair trial. In cases of habitual constipation Electric Bitters cures by giving the need tone to the bowels, and few cases long resist the use of this medicine. Try it once. KENNETH BAZEMORE had the good for tune to receive a small bottle of Cham-berlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhosa berlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy when three members of his family were sick with dysentery. This one small bottle cured them all and he had some left which he gave to Geo. W. Baker, a prominent merchant of the place, Lewiston, N. C., and it cured him of the same complaint. When troubled with dysentery, diarrhea, colic or cholera morbus, give this remedy a trial and you will be more than pleased with the result. The praise that naturally follows its introduction and use has made it very popular. made it very popular.

This is to certify that I have used Krause's Headache Capsules periodically for over one year and have very nuch pleasure in stating that much pleasure in stating that they have always proved very benedical and have relieved me in from ten to difteen minutes.
